

Biography

Tabitha Simmons

British born Tabitha Simmons graduated with honors from Kingston University with a degree in set design and film. While working as a Saturday girl in Joseph she was discovered by a model scout, Tabitha went on to model for a few years but quickly became interested in wardrobe styling which allowed her to combine her personal style with an educational background in design.

Today, Tabitha is a contributing fashion editor at American Vogue and collaborates with other magazines including Vogue Italia and LOVE among others. Throughout her career, she has collaborated with the most sought after fashion photographers and directors.

Tabitha consults with numerous brands and designers on projects including seasonal collections, runway shows, presentations and print and television campaigns. Some of these have included Dolce & Gabbana, Tiffany & Co., Fendi, Alexander McQueen, Calvin Klein, Rag & Bone, Theory, Philosophy, DKNY, Tory Burch, Marchesa, Estée Lauder and Carolina Herrera.

In autumn of 2009, Tabitha launched her eponymous shoe collection earning the “Launch of the Year” Award by Footwear News and has been recognized by the industry through numerous honors including a British Fashion Award, a Footwear News Achievement Award, a CFDA Swarovski Award for Accessory Design and a CFDA Accessory Designer of the Year Award. Tabitha was also a finalist for CFDA/Vogue Fashion Fund.

Tabitha is based in New York City.