

Biography

Tracey Nicholson

Tracey Nicholson is a fashion stylist and consultant who lives in New York and London. Her aesthetic is modern and dynamic embodying a graphic elegance and a confident independent vision.

Tracey graduated from Central Saint Martins College in London and began her career at Dazed & Confused and Another Magazine. Upon moving to the United States she joined the fashion team at American Vogue and went on to hold the title of Fashion Editor at i-D Magazine.

She currently contributes to T: The New York Times Style Magazine, W, Vogue China, 1 Granary, Modern Weekly China and V Magazine.

Alongside her editorial work Tracey's consulting and advertising clients include Kenzo, Helmut Lang, Nike, Hermes, Tods, Lacoste, Rolex, Swarovski, DKNY, Gap, Zara and L'Oreal.

She has collaborated with leading photographers and directors including Ari Marcopoulos, Collier Schorr, Oliver Hadlee Pearch, Casper Sejersen, Zoe Ghertner, Jacob Sutton, Nicolas Kantor, Brianna Capozzi, Amy Troost and Bibi Cornejo Borthwick.